Summary
The Department seeks applicants committed to the equality of educational opportunity at John Carroll University as this pertains to groups historically marginalized in higher education. We welcome candidates who place gender, race, and ethnicity, and/or economic inequality at the center of their educational leadership, scholarship and teaching interests in elementary education.

The Department of Education and School Psychology is a dynamic, multidisciplinary group of scholars with a strong tradition of teaching and scholarly excellence, community engagement, and educational leadership. Faculty demonstrate a commitment to creating a collegial academic environment characterized by equity, social justice, and collaboration. Academic programs are informed by the Jesuit ideals of Ignatius of Loyola who emphasized the intellect, embraced diversity, and worked for social justice in the world.

John Carroll University is a private, coeducational, Catholic, and Jesuit University. With an enrollment of 3000 undergrads and 500 graduate students, the University provides over 70 academic programs of study in the liberal arts, sciences, education, and business. Among regional universities in the Midwest, John Carroll University is ranked second in the 2020 U.S. News & World Report. The university is located in University Heights, Ohio, a racially and economically diverse suburb of Cleveland with walkable neighborhoods, parks, local eateries, and affordable housing. Located on the shores of Lake Erie, Cleveland is a cosmopolitan city — home to the world renowned Cleveland Orchestra, the Cleveland Museum of Art, the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, and more.
