Middle School History Teacher

The Archer School for Girls is an educational community that supports and challenges young women to discover their passions and realize their true potential. Serving 510 girls in grades 6-12, Archer’s joyful and ambitious program is founded on the latest research around how girls learn and thrive.

History courses challenge students to construct knowledge, derive meaning, and communicate effectively. Learning is inquiry-based and anchored in enduring understandings to prepare students for the challenges of the future and to thrive in an increasingly connected and global world.

We are currently looking for an experienced Middle School History teacher with exemplary pedagogical skill, strong content knowledge, facility in using educational technology, commitment to ongoing professional development, and passion for teaching and learning.

Responsibilities include teaching 4-5 courses, serving as a mentor, and participating in co-curricular school activities like our award-winning literary magazine, literature conference, experiential trips, clubs, and committees.

A bachelor’s degree is necessary; a master’s degree and/or teaching credential is preferred. Candidates should have at least three years’ experience teaching in a student-centered classroom with a successful track record of collaboration and curricular design experience. In sum, our ideal candidate is a passionate, skillful educator and innovator who is eager to invest her/his talents in our dynamic learning community.

Beyond competitive pay and benefits, faculty enjoy working in a highly collegial, student-focused, and joyful learning community. We seek faculty who will contribute to an equitable and just learning environment. Integral to its mission, Archer has remained passionately committed to cultivating a diverse and inclusive community where all students can thrive personally and academically.
